Periodontics resident Dr Loredana Calce - Ridge Alteration Following Dental Extractions and Ridge Preservation Procedures

- Dimensional changes after dental extractions
- Extraction Socket Healing
- Principles of Ridge Preservation

Dr Loredana Calce is originally from the Bronx and completed her undergraduate studies at Iona College in New Rochelle. She went on to pursue her dream of becoming a dentist at Stony Brook School of Dental Medicine, and continued her studies as a periodontal resident, where she is in her third year currently. She also is pursuing a masters degree in Oral Biology and Pathology with a focus on the treatment of peri-implantitis using diode lasers. Dr Calce hopes to return home to the Bronx to practice Periodontology after graduation.

Anesthesia resident Dr Jenny Xiao - Lecture Title: Anesthetic Considerations for Patients with Special Needs
Learning Objectives:

- Recognize a patient with special needs that may benefit from general anesthesia
- Describe the challenges providers may face when treating a special needs patient
- Review commonly used medications and techniques administered by anesthesiologists to this special population

Dr. Jenny Xiau grew up in Toronto, Canada and completed her undergraduate studies at McMaster University in Hamilton, Canada - about 60 miles northwest of Buffalo. She received her Doctor of Dental Surgery degree from Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, Virginia where she became interested in the specialty of dental anesthesiology and founded the school's first Dental Anesthesia Club. She is currently in the second year of dental anesthesiology residency at Stony Brook University, and is open to remaining in the NY area after her graduation in 2025.

Orthodontics resident Dr Sean Zar - "Treatment Considerations for Anterior Tooth Size Discrepancies"

Dr. Sean Zar is from Long Island and attended Stony Brook University where he majored in Biology and minored in Business. Upon graduation, Dr. Zar remained at Stony Brook University for his dental training and then completed the hat-trick by matching to SDM's Orthodontic program where he is currently a third year resident. After earning his certificate and finishing his M.S. in Oral Biology, Dr. Zar hopes to practice in the Brooklyn/New York City area.
